This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTORY

In issuing this index, a word concerning its origin and scope seems necessary. For many years the need of a convenient guide to stories for the use of the teacher has been felt. It is a difficult matter to put into the hands of either a child or a teacher, on a moment's notice, a five or ten minute story on the beaver, the moon, truth, truancy, or any other of the hundred and one subjects sometimes called for within a week. Especially in connection with the kindergarten and primary work has this been felt. As a result the stories in over a hundred books have been read and entered under such subject headings as seemed likely to prove useful.

No attempt has been made to discriminate between books having literary value and those lacking it. All stories that seemed capable of adaptation for oral work have been included in all cases where we have deemed the thought in them worthy of consideration. Story-telling rather than story-reading has been the uppermost thought. From some books we have picked but a single story of all those given, and that because of its central thought.

No attempt has been made to present an exhaustive index. All country headings have been omitted, and all personal headings excepting Lincoln and Washington.

Our rule has been to enter a story under the specific heading when a choice was necessary, except in cases where we thought the general heading would be more likely to be consulted. In many cases a story has been indexed under various headings. An attempt has been made to group such stories as are based on the same legend, or folk-tale; but owing to the fact that such a variety of titles are applied to the same story by different editors or compilers, and to the fact that the two editors of this index have worked on entirely different groups of books, in all probability many stories will be found having the same basis, and yet indexed under different headings.

The paging given refers to the particular edition of the book listed in the appendix.

No effort has been made to trace any story to its original source. The editor or compiler of the book has been treated as the editor-author, the object of the index being merely to bring together the teacher and the story with the least possible expenditure of time and effort.

We wish to acknowledge the courtesy of A. C. McClurg & Company and the Milton Bradley Company in furnishing us with a number of valuable books for use in our work.
